DEFEAT WAS EXPECTED.

Harrison Knew Well That He Could Not Win in the Late Great Election.

He Charges It to Mismanagement and Defection of His Colleagues.

An American Protectorate Likely to be Placed Upon the Hawaii Islands.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 12.—President Harrison talked freely to-day about the recent defeat of his party and the causes which brought it about. He discussed not only the recent election, but the gravity of the situation which now confronts the Republican party. These disclosures were made to an intimate personal friend, and can be relied upon as absolutely accurate.

The overwhelming defeat of the Republican party, the President said, was due mainly to the position of the party on the tariff question. The Republicans had forced this issue to an extreme which evidently did not meet with the approval of the people. There was another important element, the President said, which had much to do with the defeat of the Republicans last Tuesday, and its force was felt in the North as well as the South. There was a popular belief that the Force Bill issue kept the "Solid South" within the old lines, but in the President's estimation it did more than that, for it brought to the support of the Democratic ticket many votes in the North.

This expression of opinion on the part of President Harrison verifies the rumor current here some time ago that it was the party and not the President who took such an extreme position on the two leading issues on which the Republican campaign was to be made. The verdict of last Tuesday, the President said to-day, could be construed only one way. It meant a condemnation of the extreme high tariff policy of the Republicans with the inevitable result. If the party was to hope for a renewal of power it was by a modification of this position, but not a renunciation altogether of the protective tariff policy which had been the keynote of every Republican campaign for many years past.

The President did not dwell on this point of the discussion, possibly because it would have involved the Blaine reciprocity ideas, regarded by many here as the saving clause of the McKinley law. The President has never mentioned Mr. Blaine's name in any connection whatever since the latter resigned from the Cabinet and became a rival candidate for the nomination at the Minneapolis convention.

The President never has forgiven Mr. Blaine and never will. They can never be friends.

President Harrison has very decided views as to the conduct of the campaign. He does not think very much of Chairman Carter of the Republican national committee. He consented to Mr. Carter's appointment only when it became evident that no more acceptable man could be secured. The President in his talk to day cannot be said to have handled Chairman Carter "without gloves," but he was certainly forcible, and talked to the point. He said the campaign had been mismanaged and that much better results could have been secured, but for the "rainbow chasing" schemes to which Mr. Carter gave countenance and assistance.

The President is particularly chagrined at the result in his native state, and believes that it was largely due to lack of good generalship. He had, he said, expressed the opinion prior to the election that it was a loss of time, money and energy for the Republican campaign managers to attempt to carry Democratic states. What he wanted them to do, he said, and what he endeavored to impress upon them, was the absolute necessity of keeping the Republican states in line and carrying New York.

The President said he had realized for some time past that the drift of public sentiment was against him and his party, and it was this that had led him to force this advice upon the party leaders. The disregard of this advice, the President said, had much to do with the result of last Tuesday's election. The President realized, so he said to-day, before any of the election returns came in on Tuesday, that he was a defeated man. He hoped for success until the last hour, but admitted he had not expected it. One of the reasons for the President's doubt as to the election was the well known dissatisfaction of a number of prominent leaders of his party. This is shown by his statement with regard to Dudley, Quay and Cameron. As to Cameron, the President believes he not only failed to support the ticket, but actually did all in his power to defeat it. Cameron's influence extends like Quay's, far beyond the confines of Pennsylvania, and the President evidently realized that both these men were in a position to do much to injure the ticket in the Republican states of New York and Indiana. As to Col. Dudley, the President to-day said he did not believe Dudley had done anything to injure the ticket, but his influence had rather been of a negative character. Practically the President admitted that Col. Dudley's influence in Indiana had been used, if not to knife the ticket, to keep his friends from working for it. In closing the interview, the President said that while some mistakes have been made it was quite evident to any man that nothing could have withstood the uprising of the people against the high protective policy to which the Republican party stood pledged by the McKinley law.

Will Try the Antarctic.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—There will be few if any sealing schooners hailing from this port found in Alaskan waters during the coming season. The majority of these engaging in the seal industry consider the risks too hazardous to venture there even though the results are profitable. Antarctic latitudes are now looked upon with favor, and most of the sealers will venture their luck next season in that quarter of the globe. Last year the Australian sealers are reported to have had great success in Antarctic latitudes and that is probably the reason which has induced sealers from here to forego their risky expeditions in Alaskan waters, where the Russian gunboats are alert. Captain Herrewin, a well known hunter, is among those who will go south. He says that the Antarctic seal is somewhat inferior, so far as regards texture of the fur, to its northern cousin, but the skins are in good demand and sell at a fair price. It takes an expert to distinguish them from Alaskan seals. Capt. Herrewin also states that seals are more plentiful in the Antarctic and are more easily hunted.

UNION HAPPENINGS.

World's Fair Coal Samples—The New Newspaper—School Matters at Comox.

UNION, B. C., Nov. 12.—The Union Colliery Co. have taken out four blocks of coal for the World's Fair. They are each six feet square. They are to be sent to Victoria to be dressed and are splendid specimens of British Columbia coal.

Mr. F. D. Little's steam yacht for Comox Lake is expected to arrive by next boat. She is now finished in Victoria, and is said to be a beauty.

Twenty-five Japs went to work in the mines last Monday. It is to be hoped they will prove a failure as they keep from work men who have waited all summer for the mines to re-open.

The Comox News made its first appearance this week and is a lively sheet. It is brimful of news of the district.

School matters in South Comox are still in muddle. An election of trustees takes place on Monday next, when trustees favorable to Mr. J. N. Muir are sure to be elected. Feeling is running high, as Mr. Muir has given general satisfaction and the people want to get the best man to educate their children.

Mr. Pidcock, the Indian agent at Cape Mudge, came down to Comox with news of a disturbance among the Indians, potlatches and whiskey being the trouble. The Joan was chartered to take up 16 special constables. W. A. Gilchrist went up as war correspondent for the Comox News. No serious trouble is expected.

Mr. Alex. Grant, of Grant & McGregor, goes to Victoria this week on business.

Indian Agent Lomas, from Duncans, is up to vaccinate the Comox Indians. They were vaccinated last summer, but the vaccine points were not good. He has with him some fresh lymph and is giving the Indians a thorough overhauling.

R. Grant, J. Bruce and H. McGregor went up to Perseverance last week on an Elk hunt. They saw no indications of elk, it being rather early in the season for hunting them. A party intends going to Black Creek to hunt them when the first snow falls. A number have been killed at Black Creek in former years.

CLEVELAND AND CANADA.

Very Friendly Are the Feelings of the Great Democrat Towards This Country.

Tuberculosis Discovered in a Cow at Toronto and New Light in the Disease.

Terrible Fatal Fire in Montreal—Interesting Railway Suit Decided.

OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—It is asserted in official circles that the Democratic triumph puts the finishing touch on the policy of unrestricted reciprocity. Upon the tariff question the Democratic party have a fixed principle. They will not entertain propositions for reciprocity or trade, or any other project hampering the free action of Congress. Five years ago, when Cleveland was president, a treaty relating to the Atlantic fisheries was entered into in modification of the treaty of 1818 and at the threshold of the negotiations Sir Chas. Tupper proposed on behalf of Canada that the whole question of the commercial interests of the country should be taken up and a settlement made upon a basis of broad reciprocity of free trade. Bayard, the Secretary of State, declined to entertain the proposition, on the grounds that it was contrary to Democratic doctrine to make any contract regarding tariff, which belonged to the House of Representatives, and in his message to the Senate recommending the ratification of the fisheries treaty of 1888, Cleveland took similar grounds.

Cleveland said:—"The treaty now submitted contains no provision affecting tariff duties, and it was considered more expedient to allow any change in the revenue laws of the United States to be made by the ordinary exercise of the legislative will, and in the promotion of the public interests."

The policy then enunciated may be expected to govern Cleveland's policy in the next four years, and Canada cannot, therefore anticipate the conclusion of a reciprocal treaty of trade between the two countries, but Canada may, with a good deal of confidence, count on a modification of tariffs in the interests of free commercial relations.

Cleveland is on record as favoring friendly relations. In a message to the Senate during his last incumbency of the presidential office, he said of Canada: "Our social and commercial interests with those populations who have been placed upon our borders and made forever our neighbors, is made apparent by the list of United States common carriers, marine and inland, connecting their lines with Canada; this intercourse is still but partially developed, and if amicable enterprise and wholesome rivalry between the two populations be not obstructed the future is full of the fruits of an unbounded prosperity, on both sides of the border."

Jumped to Her Death.

MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—Last night about 11 o'clock fire broke out at the corner of St. Andrew's and Catherine streets, occupied by the Banc du Peuple, Jos. Poupart, dry goods merchant, and F. Lapoine, furniture dealer. Poupart's store is in the centre of the building, and he lived on the third floor with his wife and two children. The fire is supposed to have broken out in the store and spread to the staircase, thus cutting off that avenue of escape. Mr. and Mrs. Poupart, who were sleeping at the time, were suddenly awakened by thick volumes of flames and smoke bursting into the room. The inmates instantly rushed to the windows to escape. The flames had almost reached the windows; Mr. and Mrs. Poupart were standing there when Mrs. Poupart seeing carpets spread among the crowd below to break her fall jumped from the window. In her descent she crashed through an awning and missing the carpet struck the pavement with terrific force. She was taken to the general hospital, where she died a few minutes after admission. Meanwhile Mr. Poupart slowly made his way along the ledge to a neighboring roof from which he was rescued in safety. The two children fortunately were away from home. During the fire a fallin brick struck Fireman Charboneau rendering him senseless.

Unsuitable Business Methods.

MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—A. Chisholm of the firm of Chisholm & Son, was arrested yesterday on a capias issued at the instance of Steele & Williamson for the sum of $850. Two more capiases are to be issued against Mr. Chisholm, who was released on the first capias. This action has caused a good deal of excitement among the members of the butter and cheese trade, and there is every probability that before Mr. Chisholm gets out of his difficulty some serious charges will be brought against him. Chisholm & Son suspended this week and this appears to have brought matters to a head, some of the creditors being dissatisfied with Mr. Chisholm's business methods.

Tuberculosis in a Cow.

TORONTO, Nov. 12.—A case of tuberculosis has been discovered in a cow in one of the dairies from which the city gets its milk supply. Veterinary Surgeon Cooper and the board of health office have been working on the case since the affected cow was discovered. There was some fear that the diseased animal had affected others and they were inoculated. This is the first time tuberculosis has been discovered here. Veterinary surgeons are of opinion that new light has been acquired whereby the terrible disease of tuberculosis can be diagnosed.

PARLIAMENTARY ACCOUNTS.

Clerk Brewer Obligingly Accommodated Members Occasionally.

OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—The Department of Justice to-day has started an investigation into the trouble over the accountant's branch of the House of Commons, which the auditor-general has called to the attention of the speaker. The difference between the vouchers received by the auditor from the office and the receipts for the money paid out is $2600. Of this amount Brewer, the accountant, can explain, so he says, $1100. He said he was in the habit of accommodating members occasionally. The balance can only be explained by Bolton, assistant accountant. Both were in the city today. It is believed there was no criminal intention. Brewer and Bolton will not be reinstated. The indemnity to members during the session is paid out in cash from this office and the vouchers to the auditor-General disclose the shortage of $2600. Mr. Brewer has been 20 years in the service and borrowed money at different times from the till, and was unable to return it before his returns to audit office led to the discovery, as he must have known they would do.

The historical house in Quebec, situated opposite the St. Louis hotel, in which Montcalm had his headquarters during the siege of Quebec by Wolfe, was destroyed by fire on Wednesday. For over thirty years the premises had been occupied by a barber named Williams, who was almost as well known as the building itself.

An important conference of C.P.R. officials and others was held at Montreal, there being present D. McNicholl, A. A. Allan, John Ennis, Archer Baker, L. A. Hamilton, A. M. Burgess, E. V. Skinner, W. C. Munderloh and W. W. McPherson. The object of the conference was to discuss the immigration policy to be adopted next year. Land Commissioner Hamilton, of Winnipeg, explained the needs of the Northwest in the matter of increased population. The conference confined its business principally to details, but was quite unanimous in favor of an aggressive policy, also that an increased influx of British and continental immigrants might be brought about. What was mainly wanted, according to those present, was the farming class—men able to settle down and grow up with the country. Mr. Hamilton left for Europe Friday.

While in Winnipeg President Van Horne confirmed the reports of the intention of his company to establish an Atlantic service of fast steamers. "There have been references to the C.P.R. extending its Pacific service in the direction of a line of steamers to Australia," remarked the reporter. "Yes," came from President Van Horne, "and such a service will be inaugurated after the Atlantic steamers have been established. It will be a separate and independent line from the steamers now sailing between China, Japan and British Columbia." Mr. Van Horne left for Montreal last night. In conversation with a reporter Mr. Van Horne referred to the extension of the Soo Line from Valley City, North Dakota, to a point on the Canadian border. The Canadian Pacific will build to this point from Regina, and when this is completed there will be formed the shortest route to the Pacific coast from St. Paul. The new line will cross the Great Northern at Minot, and the Northern Pacific at Carrington. It is expected that the Canadian Pacific will reach the latter point this year, and complete the extension by August of next year.

Illinois' Lutheran Vote.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Washington Hesing has received a telegram from Mr. Cleveland acknowleding the delivery of the Lutheran vote of Illinois. The telegram reads thus: "New York, Nov. 9, 1892. Received of Washington Hesing 25,000 Lutheran votes as per contract of Aug. 15, 1892. Grover Cleveland."

"I received that telegram from Mr. Cleveland the day after election," said Mr. Hesing. "I told Mr. Cleveland when I left Gray Gables last autumn that he must make me four promises. I requested that he would use his influence to place a branch of the national headquarters in Chicago, so as to pay special attention to the campaign in the West. He said he would, and he did. I asked him to place a clause in his letter of acceptance in favor of the parental control of the education of the child on the school issue. He said he would and he did. I asked him to put in a World's Fair clause, and he did. I told him if he would do this he would get 25,000 anti-Roman Catholic German votes in Illinois, and my word has been fulfilled. I told him that the 25,000 German votes had been cast for the Republican party, but under the conditions named they would go over to him."

The hall was crowded with men of all nationalities who make the anarchist and extreme social democratic party in this city. Red flags were hung over the doors, and the pictures of Parsons and his companions were draped in mourning. Above the pictures, and on the wall behind the platform, were the anarchist mottoes; "Workingmen Unite!" "Remember Chicago!" "Liberty, Equality and Fraternity!" "Death to the Tyrants!" "Retribution to our Oppressors!" and many others in English, German and French.

DISTRACTED HAWAII.

Extreme Probability That an American Protectorate Will be Declared.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Advices today from San Francisco giving the latest news about the situation in the Hawaiian Islands formed one of the topics of discussion at to-day's Cabinet meeting. The overturning of the Cabinet there for the third time, and the other particulars given in this morning's dispatches, have been confirmed officially by telegraph from San Francisco. Ordinarily the departments do not get information from Honolulu until the mails arrive from San Francisco. That the wires have been resorted to this time is pretty good evidence of the gravity of the situation in Honolulu. It is evident, too, that the administration here so regards it, for at the close of the Cabinet meeting to-day, Secretary Tracy telegraphed to San Francisco to stop the orders which were to go by steamer to-day directing the Alliance to leave Honolulu for Samoa. Another message was sent to San Francisco to have the Ranger made ready to visit the Samoan group. She will go by way of Honolulu.

The announcement that Paul Newman, formerly Attorney-General of the queen's cabinet, is en route to Washington on a special mission for the Queen, is not a surprise to the state department. The department not only know that he is coming, but also what he is coming for. It was probably in anticipation of his visit that Hawaiian affairs were discussed at the cabinet meeting to-day. It is well known to naval officers here, who have a personal acquaintance with Mr. Newman, that he is strongly in favor of the United States assuming a protectorate over the Hawaiian Islands, and there can be no doubt that the object of his mission here at the present time is to bring about such a result. There is every reason to believe, too, that he will be met more than half way by the state department. An official of the department made the statement to-day that one of the most important events of the closing day of the present administration would be the establishment of a protectorate over the Hawaiian Islands.

Louise Michel Talks.

PARIS, Nov 11.—Louise Michel has been interviewed in London by the correspondent of L'Eclaire, in regard to the last explosion. She said that the police sought to do evil only that they might get money, and if such retribution overtook them oftener, they might tire of hunting down honest men. The whole affair was due to the stupidity of the police, who thought they could get more money if, by putting up jobs with bombs, they could frighten the cowardly bourgeoise into believing that the police were their only saviours. L'Eclaire states that Michel has been engaged to address a workingmen's conference in Chicago.

Reform the Currency.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Rt. Hon. A. Balfour has written a letter in which he says one of the most practical remedies for the fall in British exports will be to reform the currency in the direction of bi-metallism. Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain points out that the condition is as bad in protected countries as in England, from which he reasons that the cause is not primarily with the tariff. The Duke of Portland, in a letter to his tenants announcing his intention to sell lands, says the depression in the agricultural industry is due to the free importation of agricultural products.

When they saw Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Whitney in the Cincinnatian's presence, said that he wanted to be minister to England. The Cincinnatian, now that Mr. Cleveland has been re-elected, says that he thinks Mr. Whitney will be sent to England.

ENGLISH PRESS COMMENT.

What the Leading English Newspapers Say on the Election.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Morning Post says: The fact of Mr. Cleveland's return by a large majority over the motley crowd who adopted the McKinley bill cannot be taken as an indication that extensive fiscal changes are at hand. The adjustment of necessary taxation in the interest of the manufacturers' class is one thing; the continuation of taxes which are not required is a very different thing. Perhaps Mr. Cleveland would be stronger had he declined the aid of Tamtaany.

The Daily News says: At present the country has only decided in favor of freer trade than before. Cleveland cannot move faster than the nation, and the economic heresies of half a lifetime are not to be exterminated in a day. The New York machine, which long has been a vile contrivance for securing the private ends of self-seeking politicians, has received a death blow; for, under the other name of Tammany, it has been compelled to support Cleveland, who from the first has denied this faction.

The standard says that although the McKinley protectionists have received a knock down blow, the event probably will show that protection has only been scotched and not killed. As far as this country is concerned it is not a matter of political importance. Whichever party is in power there arise occasions on which the United States Government fails in courtesy toward Great Britain, but everybody knows that these disagreeable incidents are merely electoral manœuvres.

The Times says: It is clear that the Democrats are by no means prepared to commit themselves to free trade. For the present the party will be satisfied with the usual arrangements for placating professional politicians, who have shown their power more strikingly than on any former occasion. The election was not only a protest against protection, but also a death blow to the efforts of party men to manufacture political capital out of memories of the civil war.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Saturday Review, in speaking of the recent presidential election, says: "It is difficult to calculate now on the consequences of the Democratic victory. The American constitution is so complicated, so full of checks and counter-checks, that, notwithstanding the apparent victory, the majority of the voters may not have obtained effective control of all the machinery of the Government." The Saturday Review goes on to say that the representatives of the Farmers' Alliance in the Senate may prove very compromising to friends of the victorious party, inasmuch as the Alliance is committed to some very wild schemes. "The subject of currency, alone, is of sufficient importance to present a very embarrassing question for decision, and until the Democrats possess a majority in the Senate, no very important steps can be taken towards liberating American commerce from the fatal restrictions now imposed on it. In the interval the new administration will certainly be called upon to face the currency question, wherein lies one of the most important issues of the hour. Not only is there involved the danger of precipitating a financial crisis, but there are other considerations of a very serious nature. As far as our American relations are concerned we are indifferent as to the result. Mr. Harrison has just interfered imprudently on behalf of the Irish dynamiters. Mr. Cleveland insisted on the recall of Sackville-West, and he did not wait for an answer to his demand. In both cases the move was to carry favor with the Irish voters and since Mr. Cleveland has sworn eternal friendship with Tammany, he is evidently more anxious for that support than before.

Major Sherwood, superintendent of the Dominion police, is a passenger on the steamer Quadra, which is now up the west coast. It is understood that the object of his visit is to obtain evidence regarding whiskey smuggling by American schooners and steamers.

Great Suffering
After the Grip

Tremendous Roaring in the Head - Pain in the Stomach.

"To C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:
"Two years ago I had a severe attack of the Grip, which left me in a terribly weak and debilitated condition. Last winter I had another attack and was again very badly off, my health nearly wrecked. My appetite was all gone, I had no strength, felt tired all the time, had disagreeable roaring noises in my head, like a waterfall. I also had severe headaches and in my stomach. I took medicines without benefit, until, having heard so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, I concluded to try it, and the result is very gratifying. All the disagreeable effects of the Grip are gone, I am free from pains and aches, and believe is surely curing my catarrh. I recommend it to all." GEO. W. COOK, St. Johnsbury, Vt.

Severe Sinking Pains

ST. MARK'S SOCIAL.

Rev. Mr. Arden Denounces High Tariff as Satanic Policy.

A very pleasant and successful musical social and tea meeting was held at St. Mark's on Thursday. Previously a thanksgiving service was held, when the Rev. W. H. P. Arden preached a suitable and patriotic sermon, in the course of which he said we should feel especially thankful to Almighty God for the crushing and overwhelming defeat of the Anglophobists or so called Republican party across the border, who had been trading on their hatred of the British Empire, and who, dog-in-the-manger like, had locked up their resources from the outside world through the iniquitous system of prohibitive tariff duties. Such satanic policy was more worthy of the Dark Ages than the nineteenth century, and well deserved the righteous condemnation which the good sense and intelligence of the majority of the American people had heaped upon it.

The socials which were initiated on Thursday are to be repeated every Thursday evening; the entrance fee being placed at 10 cents so that all can come and meet together pleasantly every week.

The ladies of the Working Guild have arranged to hold their bazaar a week before Christmas, when special efforts will be made to pay off the existing debt, as the congregation desire to enlarge their church, and have it consecrated, setting it apart entirely for the service of God. Another improvement is a bell which arrived last week from San Francisco, which owes its existence to the efforts of Mr. Theobald, jr. And yet another is a Sunday school library, which has been started with upwards of 150 volumes.

There are now over 30 communicants and 36 electors in the church, which has been built and opened only six months.

Catarrh, Not Local, But Constitutional.

Dr. Dio Lewis, the eminent Boston physician, in a magazine article says: "A radical error underlies nearly all medical treatment of catarrh. It is not a disease of the man's nose; it is a disease of the man, showing itself in the nose—a Local exhibition of a Constitutional trouble." Therefore, he argues, the use of snuff and other local applications is wrong, and while they seem to give temporary relief, they really do more harm than good. Other leading authorities agree with Dr. Lewis. Hence, the only proper method of cure for catarrh is by taking a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, reaching every part of the body through the blood, does eliminate all impurities and make the whole man healthier. It removes the cause of the trouble and restores the deceased membrane to proper condition. That this is the practical result is proven by thousands of people who have been cured of catarrh by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Death Intervened.

William Wills and and J. C. Anderson, who are interested in the quicksilver mines at Alberni, are in the city. Mr. Wills tells a peculiar story of how the sale of their property was stopped. They had been negotiating for some time with a San Francisco millionaire named Bell and had reached satisfactory terms. All that remained to do was to have Mr. Bell come north and see the mine. The time for his coming passed and they made inquiry about him. Their surprise may be imagined when they learned that a day or so before Mr. Bell had planned to leave San Francisco for Alberni he had fallen over the banister in his home and was killed. That ends the sale in that direction and another purchaser will now be sought.

Birdcage Walk Extension.

The Birdcage walk property owners want the city to stand half of the expense of the proposed widening of the walk. A meeting of those interested was held last night in the offices of Loewenberg & Harris. Present:—Mr. D. H. Harris in the chair, and Messrs. A. J. Smith, T. J. Burns, B. Naylor, S. Low, G. Richardson, W. J. Cameron, J. C. Newbury, W. H. Mason, J. J. Austin, Wm. Wilson, John Robertson, J. A. Raymur, R. W. Fawcett, P. Ramford, W. Munroe, J. McB. Smith, W. W. Forsythe and others.

The meeting carried a resolution asking the city to contribute one-half. The resolution will be circulated for signatures and forwarded to the Mayor.

The West Coast Smallpox.

John L. Penny, who is back from the west coast, says the smallpox excitement has all died out. One family only had the disease. They lived at Esperanza and all died from it. The Indians, Mr. Penny says, know enough now to observe a strict quarantine or isolation, and to destroy the property of those affected.

HAVE YOU TRIED IT, MOTHERS.

We believe mothers act wisely and well when they carefully and thoroughly test prepared foods for infants. It is important that this should be done, as many of the infant foods now on the market are unfitted for weak digestion.

The manufacturers of the celebrated "Lactated Food" have courted testing and trial for their perfect food. Indeed this testing of Lactated Food has been the means of its introduction into homes where nothing else would now be used.

All mothers who have not yet used this wonderful food, are requested to make application for a full sized package, which will be sent free.

Re-entering the Field.

Mr. George Forrest, of the Alliance Insurance Company, who has been spending several days in this city, leaves shortly for California. The company represented by Mr. Forrest did business in Canada and the United States some years ago, but recently withdrew. They now intend re-entering the field in Canada and the Western States. During his connection with the Alliance Insurance Company Mr. Forrest visited almost every country in the world in the interest of the company.

Bank at Vernon.

Nothing indicates the progress of a country more surely than the extension of its banking facilities, particularly the opening of new banks in rural districts. Wulfsohn & Bewick, of Vancouver, have established a branch at Vernon, and are now prepared to do a general banking business. A few years ago banks at Nelson and Vernon would have been considered very remote possibilities, but to-day they are in existence. British Columbia is steadily going ahead.

A Resolution to Dissolve.

The following notice of motion was given by Mr. W. S. Hampson at the last meeting of the Victoria Parliamentary Debating Society: "In consequence of the small attendance at the meetings of this society, that this society be dissolved, and the funds in hand, after all accounts have been paid, be distributed as the meeting shall direct." This motion will be taken into consideration on Monday evening next, November 14th.

TUESDAY'S SIGNIFICANCE.

The extent of the Democratic "landslide" is great enough to surprise the Democrats themselves. It is not likely that the most sanguine members of the party anticipated anything like so great a victory as it achieved on Tuesday, for the surface indications were far from showing the size of the revolt against the Republican administration.

The changing over of New York and Indiana is not very surprising, since they have long been regarded as leaning toward the Democracy. Nor is the defection of Wisconsin so much to be wondered at, as the question of denominational schools came to the aid of the Democrats there. But the removal of Ohio, Illinois and California from the Republican to the Democratic column was a little startling, and few would have ventured to predict such a change. The number of states captured by the People's Party is also greater than was expected. Of course the Populists won only where they were given the Democratic vote, but it must be remembered that the Populists knew they were strengthening the Democrats' hands, so the success of the "fusion" ticket was no less significant of revolt against the Republican policy than that of the straight Democrats. There is much looking for causes among the losers, as usual, but generally they realize quite clearly that the one great cause was the reaction against McKinleyism and all that it implies. The voters were influenced not only by the tariff but by the thought that the Republican party had committed itself to legislation in the interest of a small portion of the community and against the interest of the masses. The monopolists and the manufacturers' rings have been given a very sharp intimation that they cannot always control the situation, and that the political aggregation which ties its fortunes to theirs is laying up a store of trouble for itself. For a long time the rings and their political friends managed to hoodwink the farmers of the States with the pretence that "protection" was good for the agriculturist as well as the manufacturer. Had they not been incautious enough to push their desire for illegitimate profits to the extreme limit marked by McKinleyism they might have kept the agriculturist deluded for some time longer. But in spite of wiser counsels from clearer-headed Republicans they laid on the last straw, and the back of the patient beast of burden was broken. The revolt of the Ohio, Illinois and Kansas farmers, and the strength of the People's Party shows how thorough has been the awakening of the rural community. In like manner the artisan has learned the lesson which the Homestead incident was well calculated to impart, and he sees clearly how hollow and deceptive are the professions of interest in his welfare so freely offered by the beneficiaries of the tariff. It took a long time to undeceive the dupes of the protectionist in the United States, but McKinley succeeded in the task to a remarkable degree. He employed an object lesson as his means, and his pupils have profited by his graphic instructions in a way which must be entirely pleasing to the instructor.

What the Democratic party will do in the way of remedial legislation it would be hard to foretell at present. It is so far satisfactory to know that it is likely to have control of all three branches of the Federal Government, since the latest reports indicate that there will be a small Democratic majority in the Senate, or, failing that, the People's Party will hold the balance of power. It is thus made quite certain that the legislation of the next Congress will not be in the interest of the manufacturers and monopolists, whatever it may be.

This decided revolt against extreme protectionism in the States should convey a lesson to our own Red Parlor and its Conservative friends. They have so far been able to keep the Canadian voter enthralled by the lavish use of election funds and by deceiving him as to the results of high taxation. These devices will fail in Canada, as they have failed across the line. The electors are being rapidly undeceived as to the effects of the "national policy," and they are awaking to the folly of allowing money taken in the last analysis from their own pockets to affect their interests injuriously. The revolt of the Canadian taxpayer will no doubt be hastened by the uprising of his American cousin. The restrictionists in Canada would do well to study the politician's homely adage, which has been so forcibly impressed on their American congeners:—"You can fool all the people some of the time, and some of the people all the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time."

FRESHNESS WILL NOT DO.

Mr. Armstrong, the new president of the Toronto Young Men's Conservative Association, has been unfortunate enough to incur the displeasure of the Colonist. This is the same gentleman, it may be remembered, who, in his inaugural address, admitted and regretted the existence of the exodus, saying: "A hue and cry is raised by revenue patriots at after dinner speeches and by some soul-bursting political speakers on the stump against annexing our land, but not a word is raised by our politicians or by our patriotic press or by anyone, to the States annexing the brains and muscle of this country in job lots." Mr. Armstrong was also rash enough to suggest that as the older heads of the party were not at all likely to solve the exodus problem the young Conservatives should apply themselves to the task. Two other passages of the same address have aroused our neighbor's ire. One of these is as follows: "It is unfortunate for the country that neither the young nor the old, as a class, have anything to say in the politics of the country; and this accounts for the death-like apathy which has siezed the people so far as political questions are concerned." And the other is even worse:—"In Dominion politics the policy of the country is formulated and directed by nominally fourteen men, but practically three or four of the Cabinet dictate everything, and they are as autocratic as the Czar of all the Russias. We, who form the party throughout the length and breadth of the country, are simply commanded to vote and think as they direct." Now for all this the Colonist informs Mr. Young Conservative Armstrong that he is "too fresh," and that he is deficient in thinking power. Of course we should not dream of defending the rash young gentleman. Any young Conservative who gets upon his feet and "says things" is certainly too fresh and must be suppressed forthwith. What we wonder at is that Mr. Armstrong has not been arraigned by his fellow Conservatives as a traitor. Any Grit who ventured on such assertions as this Conservative used in his inaugural address would have been at once hanged, drawn and quartered by the Conservative papers, who above all things object to being spoken of sneeringly as the "patriotic press." Mr. Armstrong has escaped remarkably well in being mildly described as "too fresh," and we hope his temerity will not carry him to any greater length. He might get into real serious trouble if he should make an other such speech. Perhaps before his year of office has run out he will learn that apathy and obedience are the two safest qualities which a member of his party can possess. Conservatives lose their "freshness" with remarkable rapidity.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The contractor-aldermen are still able to extend their protection to their brother contractors at the corner of Yates and Government streets. At least there is apparent no other reason why the latter are not compelled to respect the by-law and cease victimizing the travelling public. The muddy water still squirts up merrily between the boards of the nominal "plank walk" and spoils the clothes of the pedestrian. The building inspector is the officer named in the by-law as the proper person to enforce its provisions. Why does he make no move? Is his official arm restrained by the contractor-aldermen?

The TIMES owes an explanation to Mr. Parkin and the Imperial Federationists. The excellent lecture by Mr. Parkin on Thursday evening was unnoticed in these columns, owing to a holiday succeeding the day of its delivery. Mr. Parkin is a fluent speaker, and made his subject interesting and instructive, if not convincing. He was weakest, however, where he should have been strong—that is, on the Canadian side of the question. From the standpoint of a resident of Great Britain, who can see the New Zealander on his way to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's, the arguments were conclusive. The lecturer did not outline any plan, and unfortunately had not time to consider the commercial questions involved. A well-informed correspondent, "Inter Nos," contributes the first of a series of articles on this important question in to-day's TIMES.

Ontario fishermen seem to have no greater admiration for the renowned Mr. Wilmot than those of British Columbia and Manitoba have. In a letter written recently by a Port Stanley gentleman it is charged that the fisheries department is run by a young lawyer, Minister Tupper, and a theorist, who is this same Mr. Wilmot. The writer of the letter asserts that the regulations put forth by these two men hamper the Canadian lake fishermen and prevent them earning a livelihood. The fish observe no imaginary boundary line in the water, and swim across into United States waters and are caught by Yankee fishermen who are not hampered by absurd regulations. If these regulations were abolished the writer figures out that Ontario would produce $10,000,000 worth of fish, where she now produces $2,000,000. Mr. Tupper sees to it that the Nova Scotia fishermen are granted a big bonus every year, while those of Ontario are burdened by whimisical restrictions, suggested by Mr. Wilmot and put in force by the Government. Quite an array of figures is given, and the Port Stanley man makes a strong plea in behalf of those who make their living by fishing. He suggests a convention of all those interested in the fishing industry for a thorough discussion of the Government's action. The Ontario men will hold a good many conventions before they convert the pig-headed Mr. Wilmot.

A recent test of the system of profit-sharing is thus described by an American contemporary:—"The Boston publishing house of Ginn & Co. tried the experiment last year, and at the close of the year divided with the employees a sum equal to 6 per cent. of their annual wages. The senior member of the firm expresses himself as satisfied with the result, so far as gaining of the good will of the employees is concerned, but thinks, naturally, that there can be no equitable sharing of profits where there is not also a sharing of losses. He does not ascribe the increased business of last year to the profit scheme, but to peculiar business conditions, and, as those conditions another year may be so unfavorable as to cause a loss instead of a profit, he sees the inequity of the present scheme, and is endeavoring to introduce one which shall make the employees help the firm stand its losses, as well as share in its profits. If the expenses for the year are $500,000 and the wages are $50,000, he would give the employees one-eleventh of the profits and charge up to them one-eleventh of the losses, provided the latter did not exceed 10 per cent. of the salaries. He hopes to make this kind of an arrangement for the business of the coming year. This is not a highly developed form of profit-sharing, but it is as far as a firm can safely go in the experimental stages of a new departure in the industrial system." If the proposed plan is adopted there will be much interest taken in the result.

Whiskey Loving Euclataw Indians Make It Lively for the Specials.

Constables Chased Through the Woods—Arrest of the Whole Gang.

On the evening of the 3rd inst. Mr. Pidcock, Indian agent at Cape Mudge, hearing there was a quantity of liquor at the Euclataw reservation, sent three special constables, Hughes, Galano and Holst, to arrest an Indian named Assu, on suspicion of supplying whiskey. After making the arrest, a lot of Indians numbering 300 rescued the prisoner by throwing stones at the constables, Galano being struck on the leg with a large stone and severely injured.

After thinking the matter over Mr. Pidcock determined to start for Victoria and endeavor to get the authorities to send up a man-of-war and teach the Euclataw braves a lesson. On reaching Comox and consulting the authorities there he concluded to go no further, and chartered the steamer Joan, Capt. Butler, and procuring the services of Constable Anderson proceeded to swear in a number of special constables, and as a result a company of men, well armed with Winchester rifles and revolvers started at 6 on Thursday morning from Comox for Cape Mudge, determined to arrest the ringleaders. The posse was made up as follows:—

W. B. Anderson, chief constable; Wm. Cheney, sergeant; Dr. Scharsmidt, surgeon; constables, J. Baird, W. Beadnell, J. Curtis, W. Dunnington, A. W. Fraser, W. Gilcarist, J. Graham, J. McKim, D. McKim, A. Badford, P. Smith, H. Smith, A. Urquhart, F. Veles.

On arriving at Onathiaski Cove they started at once for the rancherie, and after some resistance, arrested Tsuktsais, Iarkusion, Kwakwapalas, Kuawaagleese, Klukwatsi and Kwaksista, a crowd of 600 Indians being present.

Court was immediately held before Messrs. J. McKenzie, J. P., and R. H. Pidcock, and each of the Indians was fined $45, or in default six months in jail. At last accounts only three of the fines had been paid.

Mr. Anderson and his specials naturally feel elated over the success of their trip, considering the fact that the Euclataws have always been known as a bad lot of Indians, much more so than any tribe in British Columbia, except the West Coast tribes.

Mr. Lomas, Indian agent at Chemainus, accompanied the party and assisted greatly in effecting the capture.

Preparing for Active Service.

The tug Pilot, owned by the Dunsmuirs, after lying idle for over a year, is being fitted for service. She has been hauled out on the Star ways and will be made ready for work. The Albion Iron Works have the contract for the work in their line. They will put new boilers into the tug and repair the present engines. The work will be done at an early date. There has been more work in the last few months than the Lorne can do, and with the prospects of a re-opening of the Union Mines the situation presents a still brighter aspect.

Street Improvements.

The city council is almost overwhelmed with petitions for street improvements. The aim of the petitioners seems to be to have a share of the $25,000 recently voted to be expended on the streets. Petitions enough to eat up the entire amount were presented at the Wednesday night session of the council. All such prayers are solemnly referred to the street committee, which at present has a very thankless task before it. Recommendations made months ago have not been carried out.

Repeated This Afternoon.

The story of the "Beauty and the Beast" was presented this afternoon by the pupils of the St. John's Sunday school. Those taking part were Misses A. J. Todd, E. G. Saunders, E. B. Saunders, M. After the competitors have completed their work the judges will go over the ground and award the prizes. This evening the ploughers will hold a banquet at the Oriental hotel.

Music and Refreshments.

The Delmonico restaurant and music hall will be opened on Monday evening. The place is being renovated and will present a bright appearance on that occasion. A lady orchestra and a couple of lady vocalists are expected to arrive in the city to-day from San Francisco.

The Young Men's Institute.

A special meeting of the Young Men's Institute has been called for Monday evening by President Van Nevel to consider business of importance. After the meeting there will be a debate. The subject is "Resolved that the sale of intoxicating liquors is not beneficial to the country." Messrs. D. McBrady and H. Lang will lead the two sides.

Resigned.

Dr. Dickson, who was health officer for Cowichan district, and who, with Dr. Watson, entered a public protest against Dr. Davie's professional discourtesy some time ago, has tendered his resignation. It will be difficult to secure a medical gentleman to take the position, and the Provincial Health Officer may have to fall back on the constable who was made the "official vaccinator." Dr. Dickson will leave for England about the 26th on a three months' visit.

At High Mass.

Albert Hawthorn, the celebrated basso, will be heard in public for the first time here at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic cathedral at high mass to-morrow. Mr. Hawthorn will sing "The Lord of Abraham" a prayer from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," at the offertory in the evening. At vespers he will repeat the number. The mass will be Millard's in B flat. At vespers the choir will sing Millard's "O Salutaris," the "Ave Maria" of Cherubini and the "Tantum Ergo" of Bassaero fils.

Granted. Mr. Aikman for plaintiff, and Mr. Bodwell for defendant.

Tired of Home Restraint.

Some months ago a woman was brought down from New Westminster and placed in the Refuge Home. She remained there for some time but became tired of the restraint and left the home one night. She was picked up by a man named Bronyet who tried to reform her, but went the wrong way about it. He took other men to his residence where they had drunken rows. One of these rows was repeated last evening, the result being rather serious. One of the neighbors began paying attentions to the Bronyet woman, which aroused the jealousy of Bronyet. Last evening the trio, the two men and the woman, were all drunk. The two men began to fight, knives were drawn, but luckily the men were not able to use them. Both, however, received ugly cuts. The woman has been taken back to the Refuge Home.

The Cowichan Case.

Dr. Milne to-day sent the following letter to the Mayor, in explanation of his letter of the 7th Nov., which referred to the action of the provincial health authorities at Duncan's:

To Mayor Beaven,

DEAR SIR—Dr. Dickson called upon me in reference to Mrs. Shopland. I understand that she left the morning the quarantine was raised, although he, (Dr. Dickson) had instructed Mr. Shopland to come and get some disinfectants, which he did, but not until Mrs. S. had left for Victoria. Hence the fact is that Mrs. Shopland rushed away without carrying out the doctor's directions. Dr. Dickson informs me that since she left every precaution has been taken, by disinfectants and fumigation.

I remain yours faithfully,
G. L. MILNE.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

A Deputation of Workingmen Interview Aldermen and Mayor.

"Ald. Bragg, Ald. Bragg," a dozen voices or more called the popular contractor and alderman. Ald. Bragg turned and stood face to face with a small body of unemployed workingmen. It was at the corner of Pandora avenue and Douglas street.

"What can I do for you?"

Two of the men began speaking at once. They wanted work and wanted it at once. They did not believe in any delay. Where were the $25,000 that were voted? The alderman explained that Mayor Beaven had not yet concluded negotiations for the loan. Things had to be done in a proper manner; it took time. He was sure that the street committee would like to start them to work, but they had no money to expend; the city exchequer was depleted. But Ald. Bragg's explanation would not satisfy. A workingman with hoary locks thrust his hands into the pockets of his pantaloons. He tipped his hat to one side and replied, "that won't do;" Mayor Beaven has told us that. Why can't we go to work anyhow? We are only paid monthly and by the time our wages come due the negotiations will have been arranged. All the men were willing to wait for their money. We want work. Don't we, boys?"

The last question was addressed to his companions. And there was a universal chorus of approval.

Ald. Bragg suggested that they see the Mayor. The idea met with general approval, and a long string of men walked into the city hall.

Ald. Hall, who was descending the city hall stairs, was also "coralled." There was another five minute powwow, when the unemployed and the two aldermen filed into the office of Mayor Beaven.

"Happy to see you gentlemen," said the Mayor. And the newspaper man left them alone in their deliberations.

Society Notes.

It is probable the grand lodge of the A.O.U.W. of British Columbia will convene in Westminster instead of Chilliwack. The change of the place of convention is the subject of a petition which is being circulated. The thirty grand lodge delegates will have to sign before the change can be effected.

New lodges of the A.O.U.W. will be established at Wellington and Vernon next week.

The banquet committee of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian society will meet on Tuesday evening to arrange for the annual banquet which takes place on St. Andrew's day.

Mr. W. R. Robertson of the Ontario division, A.O.U.W., will this evening organize a lodge at Vernon.

The newly formed Irish society will meet at Pioneer hall next Wednesday evening for organization.

Acme Lodge, No. 14, I.O.O.F., was just one year old yesterday, having been launched into existence November 11th, 1891. There were 20 names on the roll when it was organized, now there are 80. Last evening the members of Acme Lodge and sister lodges celebrated the anniversary by a concert and dance at Odd Fellows' Hall. There was a very large attendance.

The two lodges K. of P. have decided to hold a Christmas tree festival for the children of the Knights

A monthly dance is to be held by Uniform Rank, K. of P.

The West Coast Enquiry.

The investigation being conducted on the west coast among the Indians, by Major Sherwood will most likely bring to light some facts that should cover Major Williams and the officers of the U.S. revenue cutter with shame. Victorians remember Major Williams and the notorious "investigation" which he conducted here last summer. Under promise of pay he got evidence from men who never saw a living seal. The west coast transaction was worse. The Indians were bought with whiskey. The American representatives were acting under direct instructions from the department at Washington, but it would be hard to believe that Mr. Harrison or any of his cabinet authorized such proceedings.

Registering Voters.

Ald. Munn has given notice that at the next meeting of the council he will move: In view of the fact that every year a large number of persons possessing the essential qualifications of voters, remain either through oversight or a misapprehension concerning the law unregistered, the city clerk be instructed to insert a notice in the press giving briefly such information as will serve to guide the public in this matter, and especially in respect to the following:—1st, The date on which the voters' list for 1893 will be closed; 2nd, who may qualify; 3rd, how registration is effected.

The Voters' List.

Mr. W. J. Dowler is busy night and day arranging the voters' list. The list is much larger this year, including the names of the residents of the new city districts. Those property owners who have not paid their taxes by the 1st of December will not have the pleasure of seeing their names on the list.

Exhibition and Concert.

The lime light exhibition and concert to be given in the Centennial Methodist church Sunday school room, on Monday evening promises to be an unusual treat. A good programme has been prepared and there is sure to be a large crowd present.

A Wild Night.

Victoria was visited by a rather severe wind storm last night. No damage to speak of was done anywhere, but plants and shrubs in different gardens about town suffered considerably. It was a wild night in the straits. The wind was followed by a few hours of chilliness.

Drink Victoria Lager.

No Cars After 4 p.m.

While the work of connecting the boiler with the gigantsc smokestack at the N.E.T. and L. Co.'s power house is in progress, the street cars on all lines will not run after four o'clock each afternoon, beginning to day. This will continue for several days until the connections are made. The reason is that it is found impossible to operate the electric light system and the power for the cars at the same time with the apparatus in its present condition. In about a fortnight the company expect to have both systems working as perfectly as before the great fire.

Annual Week of Prayer.

The international Y.M.C.A. annual week of prayer commences Sunday, Nov. 13. A special mass meeting for men only will be held in the Association Hall, 40 Broad street, at 8 p.m. Addressed by the Rev. P. H. McEwen. Services will be held each evening through the week commencing at 8 o'clock, to which all young men are cordially invited.

W. C. T. U.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will give a grand concert on Wednesday evening next, 16th inst., in the Temperance Hall, Pandora street. Some of the best singers in the city have been engaged for the occasion. To commence at 8 o'clock. Tickets fifty cents each.

Protection vs. Free Trade.

Through the influence of the Victoria Single Tax Club, a copy of Henry George's book has been mailed to every voter in Victoria on this year's list for Mayor. The club is meeting with considerable success in spreading the doctrine of the single tax.

A Case For the Police.

A young well-dressed man who haunts Fort street should be looked after by the police. He has been guilty of gross indecency when large numbers of school children were near him. He is worth watching.

The Highland Damaged.

The bark Highland which arrived from Panama yesterday lost several staunchions and some of her bulwarks in a gale which was encountered off Cape Flattery. She will be towed into Esquimalt harbor on Monday for repairs.

The First Rehearsal.

The first rehearsal of the opera, Olivette, will be held on Monday evening when the books and orchestral parts will be distributed. The principal musicians in the city have interested themselves in the production of the opera.

Damaged the Wall.

One of the banks adjoining the tramway company's new power house caved in yesterday and damaged the wall of the new building. The break was repaired to-day.

JUST THE MAN FOR THE PLACE.

The wealthy man is often the most burdened. Sometimes I wish I could find a man to take the responsibility and duties of my fortune off my hands.—Russell Sage, in a recent interview.

If you sought a warrior, a son of Mars,
Who should come through the glare of the cannon's flame
With a glorious name that should shine like the stars
On the azure field of a deathless fame;
If you wished me to find him, well, I'd confess
That I felt myself unprepared for the charge.
My acquaintance with men of this measure, I guess,
For obvious reasons, is not very large.

If you sought a man who could found a state,
And grow an empire out of his brain,
Who would steer the rudder of stubborn fate
Through the whirlpool swash of an untried main;
If you wished me to find and to introduce
This chap to the public to make his bow,
I would like to oblige, but would have to refuse,
For he's not very numerous just now.

If you wanted a man who could write a song
That would echo on through the years sublime,
That would cheer men's souls like the resonant gong
That tells to the toiler it's dinner time;
If you wished me to find him, why, I should decline
To hunt so elusive a fellow as he,
For in this age of the world, I opine,
He's the stubbornest kind of an absentee.

But you seek a man who'll assume the weight
Of your countless wealth, my good millionaire,
I know him, I know him, and hasten to state
He is ready to take all your burden and care.
Do you want him at once? You will find him at home—
He'll accept and won't take a day to decide:
Just write to the fellow who wrote this pome—
He will tell you a man who is qualified.

—S. W. Foss, in Yankee Blade.

JACK'S MOTHER-IN-LAW.

The Pathetic Tale of a Victim of an Old Joke.

Jack's mother-in-law was coming to make them a visit. Jack had married Alice down in the country, where he had gone one summer for the fishing. He had been so much in love with Alice that he had not paid much attention to her mother during their courtship; and, to tell the truth, he had almost forgotten about her since. She seemed to Jack a good old soul, but rather tiresome and poky. Now, there was nothing poky about Jack's set. Even the old women whom he knew were "up-and-a-coming," as he used to say, so Alice's mother with her quiet ways and almost slavish devotion to her pretty daughter had impressed him more as an adjunct to Alice than anything else. And now she was coming to visit them. He had not thought of her since five months before, when he had made some excuse to get out of accompanying Alice down to see her.

Alice was one of those selfish little women who often make the most devoted of wives. Just as her mother had worshiped and waited upon her she adored and petted Jack, but there was no room in her heart for any one else except her baby. They had been married a year now, and a little Jack had recently come to them—a red-faced, bald-headed baby—but Alice was very proud of him, and she wrote for his grandmother to come and see him.

Jack was the best-hearted fellow in the world, but he had been brought up very differently from these simple country people. Sometimes he was a little bored even by Alice, although he loved her dearly; but her mother! he was sure he could not stand that, and so he planned to be at home as little as possible during her stay.

The gentle old lady felt strange and out of place in Alice's home. The busy city doctor, the pompous nurse, the servants were all so different from the people she had known, and Jack—she was terribly in awe of Jack. Alice was full of plans and projects for the baby, and her mother was left a great deal to herself. The poor old lady strayed about lonely and homesick in the great rooms, feeling that they all, even Alice, seemed like strangers to her—all but little Jack. Babies are babies, rich or poor, city or country—and she had nursed a good many of them in her day and she did not feel shy with little Jack. And he was part hers—her little grandson. She wished that they would send the nurse away and let her care for him. She held him in her arms and rocked him and crooned an old song in a cracked little voice, quite forgetting that the dignified nurse was in the room. And the nurse's heart softened toward the dear old lady as she heard the song—for her own mother had sung just such songs over her years before.

It happened to be at this time a sort of between seasons for the funny men on the newspapers—that is, too late for the annual ice jokes, and a little early for the ones about the coal-dealer—so they ran in all the old mother-in-law stories of the last decade. Alice's mother read the daily papers from end to end. There was much in them that she neither liked nor understood, but reading helped to pass the time, and she had so much time. She had always subscribed for the little sheet that had come out at "Green's Corners" every Saturday for forty years, but that was purely local. Another man had once bid for trade there, but old Johnson, the "Ed.," had told him that he had furnished the brains for that town and had set his own type for forty years and that neither his brains nor his fingers showed any signs of giving out for some time yet. So the Bulletin went on in the old way, giving the deaths and marriages and town topics, and the mother-in-law joke had never penetrated to its columns; and thus it came that to one reader these paragraphs were a novelty.

She pondered much over them, poor woman. She knew that there were such women—Andy Clumm's wife down at the "Corners" was a terror; and the report was that Joe James' mother-in-law made it so hot for Joe that he had to leave. But then Andy was shiftless and Joe was a drunkard. It seemed cruel to her that the men who wrote the papers rated all mothers-in-law with such as they, and she grew so sensitive about her own relation to him that she hardly dared address Jack lest he think her a meddler.

Jack read these funny stories too and fellows joked him, and he began to pose to them as a man with a mother-in-law, for men usually like to pose as something and he was tired of being simply a "good fellow." So he began to take a great many of his dinners down-town and stay out late at night, telling Alice and her mother that his business worried him terribly and needed his constant attention. He didn't lose any flesh over these business troubles, but he talked about them a great deal and got a lot of sympathy at home.

One day Alice's mother went down to her home on a business errand. It was rather a mysterious affair, but Alice was too much taken up with baby to notice her mother's nervousness, and nobody else paid any attention to her. At night she returned, pale and tired, with a little oilskin bag pinned securely in her pocket.

Jack did not come home that night; he telephoned Alice that business was pressing, and then he went to the theater with some of his friends.

The next day the old lady prepared for another expedition. She hated to bother Alice, so she set off alone without telling her plans. She was not used to the city and after many mistakes and much walking she reached Jack's office. She was shown into his private room. It did not look as though he were suffering for want of money. There were soft rugs and luxurious chairs, and the box of cigars on the table was of the very best. Two of his friends were with him and the air was dense with smoke. A bottle of wine stood open and it must have been that the fumes of that had made him a little dull, for he could scarcely comprehend that his mother-in-law stood before him.

When at last he did understand it and she had whispered her errand a flush of shame went from his forehead to his very toes. She was sorry for him. She, whose name he had made a jest with these friends of his; she was afraid that she had been a burden an extra expense to him. She knew his business worried him, and she had mortgaged her little home and had brought him the money to help him out of his embarrassment; and she was planning to live carefully enough to lift the mortgage so that in time little Jack should have a home whatever happened.

One by one her words worked themselves into his muddled brain; and a dim vision of the little one-story-and-a-half cottage, where he had courted Alice, came before him. He put his arms around her and led her to a chair, telling her that he could not talk of it just then, but that she had saved him. He didn't say from what, and if she thought it was from financial ruin it was just as well.

Then he put on his hat and coat, and, calling a carriage, said he would go home with her. He helped her gently into the carriage, and then excused himself for a moment and went back to tell the "boys" that the baby was sick and that Alice was worried and had sent for him to come home.—Chicago Tribune.

NEW DEMANDS OF SCIENCE.

Larger Opportunities for Scientific Research Needed.

Every large university which follows the development of modern science and mathematics is compelled to add new courses of study continually to the curriculum in order that the special investigator shall have the means of pursuing research. In spite of the activity in large universities, thought of modern scientists is even more progressive, and it is possible for the complaint to come that universities do not yet offer wide enough opportunities for study. Such a charge is made by Cleveland Abbe in the Atlantic Monthly. His plea is for a greater recognition of the claims of terrestrial physics, which embrace the problems "in which we consider the land, the ocean and the atmosphere, respectively, as units, or as parts of the greater unit which astronomers call 'the earth.'" The branches of the subject comprise many interesting fields of modern scientific research. Already the conditions of the interior of the earth and the reaction of that upon the surface are the subjects of experimental work. The crust of the earth forms an important branch of study. Geology may observe phenomena, but it has not yet been explained whether the general locations of the features of the continents and ocean beds have always been as now, and what the mechanism is of the rise and fall of mountain chains. The subject of earthquakes or scismology has not yet been satisfactorily studied. Nutation and rotation of the earth and the mysterious forces of terrestial magnetism are still secrets held fast by nature. The relation between the ocean and the land, and the problems of the ocean, which forms the branch of oceanography, offer a series of particularly interesting problems. The atmosphere is a part of the earth, and great progress will be made in the future in the prediction of daily weather, of extensive climatic changes and droughts and floods. Our signal service and State weather service would undoubtedly be improved by collegiate support. In this rapid review of the suggestions made in an important article it may be seen that quick and lively scientific demands are pressing the universities to recognition of great fields of study. The day of exclusive devotion to ancient literature and the classics has passed, and it is already a question whether the universities will maintain an equilibrium between science and the arts. Modern curiosity is unbounded, and the world holds great secrets for the earnest student.—Boston Journal.

Libbie Did Well.

A woman whose daughter had recently married was asked how she liked her new son-in-law.

"Oh, he's splendid!" was the hearty reply. "Libbie couldn't of done better. Why, that man gets up of a morning, gets his own breakfast, does up the dishes, sweeps and dusts, and makes Libbie a nice cup of coffee and takes it up to her room before he goes to his work ev'ry morning. I tell you, Libbie did well to get a man like Frank. There ain't many like him nowadays."—Detroit Free Press.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

The Lecture by Mr. Parkin Discussed —One of the Weak Points of the Scheme.

The Food Question an Insuperable Barrier—The Scheme Involves Protection

I regret that owing to illness I was unable to attend the lecture on Imperial Federation given by Mr. Geo. R. Parkin on Wednesday evening. I have no doubt the lecturer presented to his hearers many forcible arguments in favor of the scheme, although the report contained in the Colonist the next morning sheds no new light on the subject. Imperial Federation undoubtedly contains many good points in its favor —it would be strange if it did not—but unfortunately for its promoters it also contains elements of risk and disadvantage, especially to Great Britain, which will, in my humble opinion, prevent its accomplishment.

From a colonial standpoint the scheme would be advantageous in several respects to the colonies of Great Britain, although in others it would saddle the colonists with new burdens and responsibilities. The advantages indeed would be more on the side of the colonies than of the mother country, but this would not, I believe, prevent its adoption by the people of Great Britain if there were not other and weightier reasons for its rejection. The fact that it has attracted the favorable consideration of several representative bodies and men of standing in England does not indicate that it has taken root in the minds of British statesmen or the British public. A scheme having so many excellent features as that of Imperial Federation could hardly fail to command attention, but when its weak points are considered I fear they will prove to be insurmountable, at least so far as Great Britain itself is concerned.

It is well to look matters of this kind straight in the face and to call things their proper names. Imperial Federation would mean to Great Britain the introduction of the thin edge of the wedge of protection. It would simply be asking the people of Great Britain to tax goods, including corn and food imported from foreign countries, so as to give the products of the colonies by allowing them to enter free the advantage of a monopoly of the British market, and in return for this the manufacturers of Great Britain would either be permitted to be entered free or at a low rate of duty by every colony in the federation. It seems at first sight as if this arrangement would prove to be a favorable one for both sides. It looks like a better union of interests than at present exists between the mother country and her colonies, and if there was no other world than that of the British Empire the plan would work like a charm. But, unfortunately for the scheme of Imperial Federation, there are other countries besides her colonies to be considered by Great Britain in a matter of this kind, and she is not in a position to overlook the fact.

Public opinion in England has not yet forgotten the struggle which took place about forty years ago against monopoly, or, in other words, protection. The agitation at that time was a long and weary one, and although the abolition of the corn-laws was the main object of the movement, it resulted eventually in bring about an almost complete freedom of trade in Great Britain. As the anti-corn-law agitators fought the good fight step by step the government gradually gave way and each session of parliament saw fresh articles of consumption placed on the free list and the duties on others reduced. It was not, however, until 1849 that the duty on corn was abolished, but in the meantime and mainly through the exertions of the anti-corn law league, many measures granting reforms necessary to the welfare of the people were passed. All this is a matter of history, but are the statesmen of Great Britain likely to forget what the condition of the country was forty years ago under protection if asked at the present time to take even a single step toward the re-introduction of that system? Is it likely that the wretchedness and misery which overspread the land at that time is now a thing forgotten in England? Two sentences in the speech of Sir Robert Peel, when explaining the bill for the abolition of the corn-laws, are worthy of mention: "Protection," he said, "was not a laborers' question;" and again, "High prices did not produce high wages, nor vice versa." Nothing in the experience of protection in other countries since Sir Robert Peel's time has shown that his view of the subject was incorrect.

It may be said in reply that conditions have changed greatly throughout the world since Sir Robert Peel's time, and that while his words may have been true then they are not applicable to the present day. Undoubtedly there has been a vast improvement in the condition of almost every civilized nation, especially during the last quarter of a century, and a greater degree of freedom and prosperity exists generally, but so far as the system of protection is concerned the experience in countries where that system is adopted goes to show that Sir Robert Peel was right and that the benefit derived from a high tariff is not for the workingman but for the manufacturing monopolist. The people of the United States only yesterday declared in favor of this view of the case.

In one respect the condition of Great Britain has altered greatly since Sir Robert Peel's time, and the change is not favorable to the adoption of Imperial Federation in one of its aspects. Mr. Parkin laid stress on this point, but in dealing with it he did not state the whole facts of the case, and his words as quoted are misleading:

"Fifty years ago, he said, there was in Great Britain a population of which one-third was agricultural and one-third artisan. Now there was only one-eighth agricultural, while three-fourths of the people were artisans. Thus the Mother Land became what was known as the workshop of the world, and as such she depended upon the most remote portions of the Empire for her supplies of food and raw material."

I have not with me the figures of last year, but the statistics I have are of sufficiently recent date to answer the purpose. According to these it is calculated that the per capita consumption of bread in Great Britain is equal to 5⅔ bushels of wheat, and this on the basis of the present population amounts to over 200,000,000 bushels. Of this 160,000,000 bushels are derived from outside sources, the remainder being supplied by the farmers of Great Britain. Of the 160,000,000 bushels over 130 millions are furnished by the United States, Europeaa and other foreign countries, the balance coming from India and the colonies These figures are taken from returns of 1884, and from them it will be seen that the British empire itself plays but a small part in the corn supply of Great Britain. Yet the advocates of Imperial Federation would ask England to tax foreign breadstuffs in favor of the colonial product. It is not likely that the British public would submit to any such discriminating tax on wheat, especially as India and the colonies can only supply but a small part of the demand. The idea in the minds of Imperial Federationists is, of course, that the preference given to colonial produce by Great Britain would stimulate production in the colonies and eventually make the British people independent of any foreign food supply. But they lose sight of two important facts, first, that a great many years must elapse before India and the colonies combined can hope to be able to export sufficient wheat to supply Great Britain and that in the meantime the British people would have to pay an increased price for food; second, that wheat crops are uncertain in the best of countries and the only safeguard to Britain is to leave all doors wide open for its bread supply.

These facts, I think, show that while it would be a good thing for the colonies to enjoy a monopoly of the British food market, it would be a risky policy for Great Britain to grant any such concession, even for the purpose of bringing about Imperial Federation. In my opinion it would be well if the advocates of the latter would drop this part of their programme, and that our high commissioner, Sir Charles Tupper, would employ his time more profitably for the Dominion in other directions than in propounding such a scheme, which on its face bears the mark of impracticability. In my next letter I will refer to other phases of this much-discussed subject. I am, yours,

INTER. NOS.

MRS. HENRY LEWIS.

Spreading Sunshine and Joy!

PEOPLE WHO ARE DOING A GOOD WORK!

Rescuing From the Valley of the Shadow of Death!

MEN AND WOMEN THOROUGHLY INTERESTED!

Great Hope For The Future!

There are many joys in life, but few that are so pure, so grand, and so satisfying as the joy of doing good to others. He or she who, when they have the opportunity and power, refuses to do good, will afterwards suffer distress when the opportunity is lost.

We have in our midst, in all sections of Canada, many men and women who are doing a vast amount of good amongst a class who suffer both mental and bodily agonies. These men and women are willingly spreading the joyful news that they have been rescued from the valley of the shadow of death, and brought to the glorious haven of security and happiness.

The wonder stories of acute sufferings, terrible agonies, wretchedness, misery and woes, having been banished by simple and effective means, have contributed more to real happiness than any other scheme ever devised for the alleviation of human distress.

Would to Heaven that we had a still greater number of such earnest and active missionaries; there is ample room for them in our fair Canada. The harvest is indeed great, but the laborers are too few; still we are thankful for the earnest workers already in the field who are uttering no feeble or uncertain sound.

The great majority of these willing workers are rescued ones, who can sympathize and feel for the suffering, weak and distressed. They have felt and carried the cross of disease, and have had a glimpse of that dreadful, dark and repulsive road that leads to the grave. With honest purpose, these saved ones are pointing out to unfortunate brothers and sisters the true way of life, and with commendable zeal are endeavoring to induce those in need to take hold of the great agent which leads to health, strength and long years.

To-day, it is our privilege to give all interested readers a brief account of the rescue of a Montreal lady, Mrs. Henry Lewis. This aged woman for two years suffered from sleeplessness, headache, biliousness, kidney trouble and sore back; her life was made miserable and wretched, and she despaired of being in health again.

Mrs. Lewis, like thousands of other people, had worried and fretted over continual failings with physicians and common advertised remedies. Her condition was daily becoming more alarming and critical, and her hold on life was getting weaker. In this state, she had many advisers and councillors; all were heard with interest and anxiety, because a decision at this time meant life or death.

Thank God right influences prevailed and Mrs. Lewis was directed to that unfailing remedy of nature, Paine's Celery Compound. In her extremity of suffering and woe, Mrs. Lewis decided to give the great Compound a fair trial; it cured others who were far advanced in disease and pain, and she had faith that its powers were sufficient to meet her case.

The wonderful medicine was used with regularity; a grand cure was wrought; the blood now courses through its proper channels with regularity and freedom; the whole body is re-built and fortified; mental activity is increased, and many long years added to life.

To-day Mrs. Lewis is doing her best to extend the fame of Paine's Celery Compound; she is using her influence and experience for the benefit of those who need the great renewer of life. She has been saved and her object is to let others know the medium of the salvation.

No other remedy ever given to the world can boast of such an army of advocates. Men and women of all ranks of society, and even children, unite in its praise and recommendation, because of its honesty, wonders and grand results.

Mrs. Lewis' letter of testimony reads as follows:

1897 Notre Dame St. West,
Montreal, October 3rd, 1892.

Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, P.Q.

DEAR SIRS:—I am now an old woman, being in my seventy-third year, and can most frankly confess that no action of my life has ever given me greater pleasure than the present one of testfying with my whole heart and soul in favor of your Paine's Celery Compound. From my experience with other advertised remedies, I may say, that they are not to be compared with your grand medicine for a moment. Paine's Celery Compound to me was new health and increased strength. All other medicines I found worthless, and my money spent in vain.

Two years ago I became weak, sleepless and restless, and my appetite was almost gone. Severe headaches, biliousness, kidney trouble and sore back, made life a misery to me, and I despaired of ever being in health again.

These distressing troubles often confined me to bed for a week or ten days at a time; and it is almost impossible to describe the agonies and wretchedness I endured during those severe attacks. A friend advised me to give Paine's Celery Compound a trial; others insisted that I required careful nourishment and dieting. I had heard, however, of such wonderful results from the use of Paine's Celery Compound, that I determined to honestly and carefully test its value in my case; and I bless God that I had sufficient courage and will-power to do so, as it has made me a new woman. I used your compound simply as directed, and found after commencing the second bottle, that the virtues of the great medicine was instilling a new vitality, and giving me a new existence.

Up to date, I have used about twelve bottles, and I am now completely and permanently restored; I do all my own housework; I am cheerful and happy, and do not experience any of the fatigue and weakness that troubled me some months ago.

I live and enjoy life to-day; and thank God for the great agent of life that cured me.

I trust thousands of women will have a chance to read this testimony, and profit by my experience. I strongly appeal to every woman, to give up other medicines that they are now vainly using, and commence at once with Paine's Celery Compound, which alone can bring back lost health. I wish I could personally visit every woman in Canada who is suffering as I once suffered; I am sure my words of testimony would soon convince all, that there is only one honest, worthy and meritorious medicine that can meet their troubles, and that medicine is Paine's Celery Compound.

Yours very truly,
MRS. HENRY LEWIS.

The proprietors of Paine's Celery Compound are now trying to reach honest and worthy sufferers who are unable to buy medicines or employ a physician. They are in a position to deal liberally with those lacking means, and who are seeking relief from suffering. All who wish to obtain a supply of the great life-giver—Paine's Celery Compound—can have it by sending in with their application, a letter from some Clergymen, Mayor, Reeve, Justice of the Peace or Postmaster testifying to their character and standing.

Scores have sent in, and their hearts have been gladdened and cheered by receiving the great medicine free. Address Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal.
